

About the Minnesota Soybean Growers Association

Some of the most important decisions about the future of farming are being made by people who have never set foot on a farm. From the farm bill in Washington, D.C., to the Minnesota B10 mandate, the Minnesota Soybean Growers Association (MSGA) advocates on behalf of soybean farmers to ensure their freedom to operate is protected, and their profitability will thrive.

MSGA strives to speak with one voice to make positive changes that support the future of agriculture. Because soybean checkoff dollars cannot be used for lobbying, it's up to farmers to speak out on issues like water quality, biotechnology, health care, biodiesel, property taxes and more.

Membership in MSGA helps put boots on the ground and in front of policy makers year-round to ensure Minnesota's soybean farmers have a voice in decisions that affect their freedom to operate and their profitability.
